

The Symposium on Ash in North America

March 9-11, 2010
West Lafayette, IN

PURDUE
UNIVERSITY

Please join the USDA Forest Service and Purdue University for a unique conference designed to examine:

- The economic, environmental, and social/cultural importance of ash species in North America
- The current and potential effects on communities, industries, and the environment if the ash component of the landscape is reduced or eliminated
- Tools available to conserve and manage ash species or to fill the voids left by the elimination of ash

Register by February 18 to receive the early registration rate of $140. Registration will be $180 after this date.

The University Plaza Hotel in West Lafayette, IN has a block of rooms reserved under the title "North American Ash Symposium" at the rate of $89 (single or double occupancy) through February 6, 2010. After this date, all reservations will be taken on a space and rate available basis.

Registration and links to the conference agenda, lodging, and travel information are available through the conference web site at:

www.fnr.purdue.edu/ashsymposium

If you would like additional information, please contact Lenny Farlee, (765) 494-2153, lfarlee@purdue.edu or Jodie Ellis, (765) 494-0822, ellisj@purdue.edu